Art Fundamentals (formerly Studio Systems)

Fall 2008, 2013, 2014, 2015

This core studio class introduces new students to the broad range of materials and methodologies that comprise USF's art and design program. Students are exposed to new strategies in 2D and 3D projects, exploring a series of studio problems and themes.

Filipino Performance: Barrio Fiesta

Spring 2009, 2008* (*as directed study)

Student-driven production focused on the creation of USF's annual Philippine Cultural Night, with a multidisciplinary focus on all aspects of theatrical production, from set design through choreography. Assessed productivity, discussion and written assignments.

Directed Studies in Fine Arts and Philippine Studies

Met with undergraduate students to discuss and develop their creative projects, ranging from drawing, sculpture and illustration in Fine Arts to performance work in Philippine Studies.

2018 Visiting Faculty (Li Shen Endowed Artist in Residence), Mills College, Oakland, CA

Advanced Painting

Fall 2018

An upper-division studio course challenging the traditions and conventions of painting. Project assignments spur students to responding to technical objectives of scale, composition and technique while also pushing them to problem-solve for new complex and/or conceptual objectives in their work.

2006-2015 Adjunct Faculty, University of California at Berkeley, Berkeley, CA

Global Perspectives in Contemporary Art

Fall 2008, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016

Summer Session 2012, 2014, 2015, 2016

A visual arts seminar exploring art-making and art ideas in a postcolonial, global era: discussions, presentations and assignments address notions of imperialism, colonialism, globalization, and diaspora and their impacts on migration, class, otherness, identity, technology and environment.

Intermediate Drawing and Composition

Spring 2011

Intermediate course with emphasis on deepening of both technique and content, focusing on a range of drawing and mixed media skills and thematic challenges. Lectures, field trips and demonstrations introduced students to various artists and techniques.

The Language of Drawing

Summer 2008

An introductory drawing course. Projects focused on observational drawing skills, including still-life and the human figure, and culminated in thematically-driven compositions. Lectures, field trips and demonstrations introduced new artists and techniques.

Introduction To Visual Thinking*

Fall 2006 (*as Graduate Student Instructor)

Studio course introducing students to the basic concepts of contemporary visual art: a dynamic mix of seminar, studio, lecture and field trips, with both written and studio assignments. *Responsible for syllabus, projects/objectives, and all final grades.

Met with BFA students to discuss, advise and develop their independent work.

2013 Visiting Summer Faculty, University of Hawaii at Hilo, Hilo, HI

Course: Drawing from a Multicultural and Global Perspective

June-July 2013

A studio course exploring a range of contemporary and modern drawing practices from around the globe, through a closer look at their central ideas, artists, and artworks, as well as the preconditions and broader social context in which work is produced. It also incorporates lectures, readings, discussions and critiques.

2011- Adjunct Faculty, California College of the Arts, Oakland/San Francisco, CA

2012 WASAK: Diversity Seminar
Spring 2011, 2012

Investigating contemporary Filipino/American culture and creativity as a model of postmodern hybridity, a way to examine colonial histories, and a means to explore transnationalism and globalization. Students draw associations between history, current issues, and contemporary creative practices in essays, discussion and art projects.

Interdisciplinary Critique

Spring 2011, 2012, Fall 2012

Engages students in discussion about the practices of art-making across disciplines, to respond to fellow students' work and to engage in a cross-disciplinary dialogue about art making, ideas and philosophy. Students look at and write about the work of others, in order to develop and place their own work into a broader inter-disciplinary dialogue.

Graduate Advisor

Spring 2011

Met with MFA students (both 1st and 2nd year program) to discuss and develop their work.

2008- Adjunct Instructor, Diablo Valley College, Pleasant Hill, California

2009 Advanced Painting/Abstract Painting
Spring 2009

Taught an advanced course designed to further develop students' painting skills, expanding their process through a more critical emphasis on form and content. Students created self-directed, thematic projects that sustained their inquiry over the duration of the semester, culminating in a unified new body of work.

Introduction to Drawing and Composition

Fall 2008

An introduction to basic drawing and composition strategies in 2D media, emphasizing observational drawing skills as well as fundamental aspects of technique, theme and composition across varied 2D media.
